Excerpt from Our Regiment: A History of the 102d Illinois Infantry Volunteers, With Sketches of the Atlanta Campaign, the Georgia Raid, and the Campaign of the Carolinas

In presenting this book to the public, it is not claimed that "Our Regiment" was in any special way distinguished above more than a hundred organizations of the kind, sent into the field by our noble State.

The field of active service was one of common suffering and common danger, and all the regiments that participated in the work of suppressing the rebellion, will be honored according to their deeds, by the people whom they served.

In preparing the manuscript I have had frequent occasions to refer to the diaries of Capt. J. Y. Merritt, Lt. Byron Jordan and Sergt. T. M. Bell. Their kindness in permitting me to use them is gratefully acknowledged.

Numerous extracts have been made from productions of my own pen; published in the form of newspaper correspondence, at intervals while in the service.

For many expressions of good will, and for material aid in the enterprise of publishing the "History," the officers and soldiers of the regiment have my sincere thanks.

As a scholar exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher requested them to go to the library or to make summary for some publication, they are complained. Just small students that has reading's spirit or real their passion. They just do what the educator want, like asked to go to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that looking at is not important, boring along with can't see colorful photos on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this period, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Our Regiment: A History of the 102d Illinois Infantry Volunteers, With Sketches of the Atlanta Campaign, the Georgia Raid, and the Campaign of the Carolinas (Classic Reprint) can make you really feel more interested to read.
