Beirut 1983

di A. Cavaleria

Antonio Leccese, è un giovane medico appena laureato, senza mezzi, molta inventiva, scapestrato, impulsivo, farfallone, superficiale nei rapporti con l'altro sesso e mammone.

Dovendo svolgere obbligatoriamente il servizio militare, vince, suo malgrado, il concorso per Allievi Ufficiali di Complemento in Marina.

Destinato a Taranto, incontra un sottufficiale infermiere, Michele Esposito, napoletano, che è l'esatta antitesi del suo carattere: uomo semplice con i piedi ben piantati per terra, con un saldo legame con la famiglia e con la sua fidanzata Carmela.

Fra di loro si instaura una solida e duratura amicizia che li porta ad affrontare insieme l'avventura, come volontari, presso il contingente Italiano a Beirut, allettati dal compenso in denaro della missione internazionale di pace.

Una volta a Beirut, presso l'accampamento del San Marco sono affiancati inaspettatamente da una graziosa e riservata crocerossina, Federica Migliore.

Fra bombardamenti, attentati, massacri, nell'infuriare di una guerra civile con episodi atroci e sconcertanti, la storia di una grande amicizia, un grande amore, una grande avventura.
