Old City (A Short Story) Bix Gabriel

This story was originally published in Day One, a weekly literary journal dedicated to short fiction and poetry from emerging writers.

When her husband begins taking mysterious late-night walks, Jehangir's mother suspects that he's having an affair. Jehangir, a sheltered teenager, has grown distant from his harsh father and cannot bear his mother's distress, so he embarks on a mission of espionage, following his abbu around the twilit city in order to discover the truth about his activities. On his journey he'll explore the city's colorful landscape and his own rightful place within it—and discover a side of his father that he never could have imagined. When he witnesses his father in an unexpectedly vulnerable moment, the discovery will leave him with more questions than answers.
